EL PRESIDENTE'S PODIUM V:2.0

Hello all! As I write for this issue of the JollyMon

Times, "Freeze with Breeze" is right around the corner. As all the Parrot Heads in this part of Margaritaville know that is a sure sign of SPRING! After an almost unbearable Winter we finally made it to warmer weather and with that comes a lot of fundraisers. I know everyone is busy this time of year but if you can give a few hours here and there it would much appreciated. We have jobs for everyone from picking up trash during our road clean ups to selling raffle tickets at golf events. When you get emails from our secretary, Dottie Trostle, please contact the chairperson for the fundraisers that interest you. They will be glad to let you know how you can help. If for some reason you can't connect with them, let me know and I will assist you, my email is rstaub416@comcast.net. The more people that help the easier it will be on everyone!

P.H.I.P. recently released the list for the largest Parrot Head clubs in the world. We came in at number 21 in the world with 259 members. Currently there are 231 Parrot Head clubs throughout the world. For our area to rank so high is a testament to how awesome our membership is! I want to personally thank all of you for paying your dues and sticking with us. Some of you are brand new members and some have been here for the entire 15 years, THANK YOU ALL!!! Until next time, keep your FINS UP!

GAMBLIN' AWAY IN MARGARITAVILLE

Join the fun as we take a bus trip to Margaritaville and the Land Shark Bar & Grill in Atlantic City on May 31. Our 47 seat bus will leave from The HART Center at 7 am. The cost of the trip for members in good standing is $25 but you will receive $20 in slot play when you get to the casino. So, essentially your cost is a whopping $5. You have until April 20th to pay, all seats are considered open until payment is made. Contact Lori Eberly with any questions and to pay for your trip: leberly963@comcast.net

IT'S OUR 15TH BIRTHDAY!!!!

In April of 1999 our Founding Members celebrated the receipt of the initial PHiP Charter for The Hanover Area Parrot Head Society! Little could our founding members have foreseen the friends we all would make, the successes and fun we have experienced! We have grown to the point that we are the 21st largest club in PHiP and you can bet your best margarita that we rank #1 in fun and donations created. Yes indeed, The Society rocks!

WHAT WE GIVE

Be proud you members of THAPHS, be very proud! Our goal has been to make donations every month, below are the groups The Society has recently supported:

- ♥ YWCA of Hanover
- ♥ American Cancer Society in memory of Jeff Shull's mother
- ♥ Adams County SPCA
- ♥ God's Meal Barrow in memory of Ronald Lee Sr.
- ♥ Sweet Charities of Hanover
- ♥ Brandon Boyer, medical expense

Relay For Life: July 11-12, 2014

Relay For Life 2014 will be held on July 11-12th at South West High School starting at noon. The theme for this year is Movie Madness. Your Parrot Head Relay committee members, Kelly Beck, Kim Shull, Lori Staub and Dottie Trostle, have been working hard to help make this event a success for the American Cancer Society. These ladies have taken on two of the most important parts of the event: the Entertainment for the 24 hours as well as the Luminarias which will light up the track in honor, support or memory of those that have battled cancer.

We presently have 5 teams working together as part of our group: the Hanover Area Parrot Heads, Bermudian Jaycee Angels, Barb's Angels, Denny's and Jane's Angels. We will have 5 tents together at Relay, so plenty of room for our walkers. We presently have 72 registered walkers between these 5 teams and have turned in $11,948.80. Our sponsors are: $500 - S&S Floor Covering, Steel Pirate, Brookmere Wine and Tasting Room, Hanover Parrot Heads, DJ Breeze-Mon, Bermudian Jaycees and TimBar. $2,000: Leer Photography. Still coming is $1,000+ from Denny's, $500 from AERO Energy, Bay City Restaurant, Boneyard BBQ, Countryside Family Bowl and Moon Dancer's Winery.

As part of the Luminaria ceremony we are selling Luminaria to light up the track during the night. You may purchase a Luminaria with a $10 donation in support of someone that had or is battling cancer.

UPCOMING RELAY EVENTS

Bowling For A Cure: May 9, 6 to 9 pm, Countryside Lanes, York Springs BYOB. $20 donation for bowling and $5 food voucher

Mother's Day Saturday Wine For Relay: May 10, 12 to 5 pm, DJ Breeze-Mon, in Griest Park. Get your tickets now. Also. raffle tickets for a Carol Horton Lighthouse

Trop Rock Music Event: June 1, 1 to 6 pm, Music at Moon Dancer's Winery

Golf For A Cure: June 15, 1:00 pm tee time at the Bridges Golf Course

We will need help bagging the Luminaria on July 4th weekend, with a picnic at the park. We will be tie dyeing the shirts the next Wednesday. Help us finish out the Relay year with a bang and walk the Purple Carpet with Parrot Head pride.

WHEN PIGS FLY, AGAIN!

ADAMS CO. SPCA BENEFIT WING EATING CONTEST

The Society needs members with a large appetite for wings to volunteer to compete in the 5th "When Pigs Fly" wing eating competition, a fund raiser for the Adams County SPCA.

ANNUAL WHEN PIGS FLY...

WING EATING CONTEST!

Raising Funds For Adams County SPCA... Hosted Annually By Scozzaro's

The winning team will receive an amazing prize that might include an all-expense paid, five-day stay at Something Wicked Beer Resort and Ghost Camp, should the place ever be built. Needless to say, the real prize will be amazing and worth eternal bragging rights!

This is an all day event held at Scozzaro's on Saturday, May 17th from 1:00 until 11:00. Expect to bid on some quality auction items and enjoy tunes by The Breeze-Mon and the Long Shot Band. The Society has raised funds and collected goods for the SPCA, now we can help just by getting indigestion! If you would like to compete or volunteer, e-mail BeanMon.

New additions for this year's event:

Saturday, May 10: Flying Pig Poker Run
Registration 10 am to noon. This 75 mile ride starts and ends at Scozzaro's, about 5:00.

Wednesday, May 14: Happy Hour 6:00 to 8:00 pm at the Brookmere Wine Tasting Room.

Thursday May 15: Deck party at Olivia's from 5:00 to 8:00 with live acoustic music.

We all should be able to support at least one of these events to support the Adams County SPCA.

THE MARVIN GARDENS MEMORIAL PAGE

(EdNote: Thanks to Dustin Muller for unearthing this info)

Somewhere near the corner of Ventor and Atlantic Avenue, sandwiched in between the Water Works and the Jail you'll find the humble home where Marvin Gardens was born.

This page is dedicated to the life and times of an unknown drunken calypso poet, who lived the good life, and died the great death.

Gone but not forgotten, Marvin we love you!

You wanna know where to go!

Tell ya where to go but you won't get no stinking $200.00!

MARVIN GARDENS:

THE MAN, THE MYTH, THE LEGEND

Many questions arise about who Marvin Gardens was, where he came from and what influence did he have on the music in America. Little is known about this legendary figure. Actually for most people all that is known is that he wrote the song Why Don't We Get Drunk (and Screw) for singer/songwriter Jimmy Buffett, Gardens is actually so obscure that some biographers have even suggested that he did not exist but was actually a pseudonym for Buffett himself.

Back in 1968 people from all over flocked to Chicago to make a fast buck during the 1968 convention. Chicago was not only famous for its political machine but also for its folk clubs. One such club located in the heart of Old Town was the "Tin Whistle Saloon". The bar itself was not as famous as the Earl of Old Town or the Quiet Knight but the owner, the legendary Jack "Blind Cat" McMurty was known by almost any folk singer who wanted to make it the city. McMurty was not only a saloon owner but his brother Mac, was the City Clerk. Mac could revoke any liquor license on a whim. He could also get a license approved "yesterday". Jack and Mac basically controlled who had a folk club.

Now I know what you're asking what does this have to do with Marvin Gardens?

The Tin Whistle Saloon was also know for its bartender. A one legged man with a Jersey accent and an tropical print shirt. Nothing about his looks said folk singer. He said is name was Marvin Gardens.

At the time Steve Goodman wasn't even old enough to drink but that didn't stop Jack McCurty from booking him in his saloon. Steve recalled:

I was playing at the "Tin Whistle" playing some traditional Hank Williams numbers and getting a decent response from the crowd when all of the sudden this guy who was just a little taller than me comes out from the bar, hobbles up on stage and starts backing me up on the piano

I started to improvise and he kept up with me. After a couple numbers I started to do some make a song blues and he still kept up. Finally I started playing stump the band. I'd start a song and then he'd make up the next verse and then I'd make up the next verse. We didn't stop playing until the next morning.

He asked me to come back the next night but I told him I had this gig at the Quiet Knight and would have to make it some other time. The next day I showed up at the Quiet Knight. I was the warm up act. Some guy from Mississippi or Louisiana was supposed to play after me. After I finished I decided to stick around for the next act. Eddie announced the next guy as Jimmy Boo-Fay. Buffett came out and corrected him and then started singing. I thought it was all a joke. Just the night before the guy called himself Marvin Gardens.

After his show I came up and introduced myself and asked him how he managed to do so many accents and how he faked his peg leg from the night before and why he kept changing his name.

Buffett must have thought I was crazy. After a couple minutes he had almost convinced me that he wasn't Marvin Gardens. Shortly after that Eddie came over and I asked him. "Doesn't Buffett look just like the bar tender at the Tin Whistle Saloon?" Well Eddie had never seen Marvin so he couldn't say. After a couple drinks my new friend and I decided to go over to the Tin Whistle and see his twin.

To make a long story short Jimmy and Marvin agreed there may have been a slight resemblance after about half the bar called Jimmy "Marvin".

DEATH OF AN UNPOPULAR CALYPSO POET

Sarasota Herald-Tribune...1 April, 1989
Legendary Entertainer Marvin Gardens Dead at 42

Marvin Gardens, the wry and witty singer / songwriter noted for his risqué lyrics and life on "the edge" died of a massive coronary infarction today at the Sarasota Rock 'n' Roll Rest Home, according to a statement released by the Sarasota County Coroner's Office and the home. He was 42.

Mr. Gardens, best known for the song "Why Don't We Get Drunk," which was popularized by singer Jimmy Buffett in the early '70s, was an early influence in the "gonzo" style of music that included Jerry Jeff Walker, the late Steve Goodman and Mr. Buffett. "Gonzo," a term borrowed from author Hunter S. Thompson, describes the crazy, almost insane, lyrics and tunes of some late '60s and early '70s post-folk melodies.

Mr. Gardens had been in the home permanently since a 1981 stroke - which ironically occurred on the same day that his old musical partner, Buffett, released his 'Somewhere Over China' LP. Reports indicated that Mr. Gardens was listening to a promotional copy of Mr. Buffett's 'Off to See the Lizard' release when he declared, "Oh no - this can't be happening!" He collapsed and was pronounced dead by the resident physician at the home. Mr. Gardens, the scion of a prominent Atlantic City, N.J. family, had not performed in public in some time. He is credited on several of Mr. Buffett's albums as well as pictured on the cover of Mr. Goodman's 'Someone Else's Troubles' LP. His early collaborations with Mr. Buffett were in New Orleans in the 1960s. While the two had a falling out over Buffett's decision to drop a controversial song Garden's had reportedly written for his 'Havana Daydreamin' LP, the two had partially reconciled although there were no plans to reinstate Gardens in the Coral Reefers for the upcoming tour or any other.

Reached for comment in Los Angeles, Mr. Buffett stated that, "Some people don't even know how close Marvin and I used to be. I'll miss him. We were so very close." He added, "It sort of became an on-running joke. 'Fingers' [Taylor - Buffett's harmonica man] used to call him my alter-ego. It got so bad that some people even wondered if there was actually two people or just one of us. Kind of like Batman and Bruce Wayne. That sort of thing." Recalling their early adventures, Buffett recounts, "I'd often sign in to hotels under Marv's name. Marvin never could figure out why Holiday Inn's lawyers kept sending him all those certified letters." Mr. Gardens' remains will be cremated and spread over the Gulf of Mexico after a private service today. He has no known survivors.

CHILI CON CARNAGE, A CHILI COOK-OFF MYSTERY

A novel by Kylie Logan
Bean there...done that...

Romance is supposed to be the spice of life. But Maxie Pierce is so done with bad relationships—well, almost. She just has to get rid of the latest loser, Roberto. Besides, she has more important things to worry about. Her daddy, Texas Jack Pierce, king of the chili cook-off circuit, has been missing for nearly six weeks now. In his place, she must team up with her irritating half sister, Sylvia, to promote the family business at the Taos Chili Showdown, to be judged by celebrity chef Carter Donnelly.

But when Maxie discovers Roberto's body in the chef's trailer—only hours after publicly breaking up with him while wearing a giant red chili pepper costume—she suddenly finds she's the one in the spotlight as the police pepper her with questions. Now this Chili Chick needs to kick up the search to catch the real killer and get back to finding her father...

A SHORT HISTORY OF THE SHINY DRUM

How Discarded Barrels Evolved into a Global Musical Tradition

By David Mangurian, Laventille, Trinidad

(EdNote: What would the Coral Reefers be without Robert Greenidge's incredible steel drums? Rather dull, I think. There are Steel Drum bands & competitions around the world, with a very strong interest in the Nordic countries, I suppose that during the long winters they must have 'beach parties.' Now that our own Kelly Beck & Cheryl Housman have taken-up the art it's time to revisit this article that first appeared in the Fall 2003 JMT! Chili John)

There are not many working-class neighborhoods that can claim to have produced an original musical instrument recognized around the world. But Laventille, a hilly, low-income suburb just east of commercial Port of Spain, Trinidad, justly prides itself in being the birthplace of one of the most popular musical instruments created during the 20th century. The steel drum or "pan," as it is more correctly called.

Laventille was settled in the mid-1800s by freed African slaves. There, the African tradition of drumming evolved over the years into rhythm bands of young, often rowdy men, who paraded the streets during Carnival and other celebrations pounding skin drums and, when those were outlawed, hollow bamboo drums. In the mid-1930s, these street bands began to use metal objects like garbage can lids, automobile parts, pots and pans, and biscuit tins because they were louder and stronger than bamboo, and they evolved into all-steel bands, or "steel bands" by the end of the 1930s.

Around 1942 or 1943, according to one legend, a 12-year-old Laventille youth named Winston "Spree" Simon, loaned his large iron "kettledrum" to a friend. When it was returned, his drum had been beaten concave and had lost the "special" tone Simon liked. He started pounding the under surface of the drum back to its original shape and discovered that the pounding created different pitches or notes. He produced a four-note drum and, by this accident, started the transformation of the steel "drum" from a rhythm instrument into a melodic one.

In 1946, according to steel band historian Felix Blake, Simon, using a small oil drum, developed a 14-note pan that caused a sensation when he played it during the first Carnival held in Trinidad after the celebration was banned at the beginning of World War II. The instrument was quickly copied by other musicians, and Trinidad's rhythm drum bands soon evolved into music bands.

Ellie Mannette, one of Simon's friends, began using discarded 55-gallon oil drums, which he hammered concave, trimmed, heated to make the metal stronger and more able to retain notes in tune, and then hammered from the underside to create convex notes on the concave surface. By 1947, he had perfected a drum with two octaves of a diatonic scale.

Pans with chromatic scales were soon developed. In 1951, the Trinidad All Percussion Steel Orchestra (TAPSO), a group of 10 all-star pan men that included both Simon and Mannette, was sent to represent Trinidad at the Festival of Britain in London. The group, which had increased the range of pans by inventing low-note base pans, not only played Caribbean music but classical selections as well. The event put pan on the world map, and the group toured England and France and played on BBC radio and television.

TAPSO panman Edric Conner wrote back home: "I don't want to hear any West Indian say we haven't got culture."

Today, steel bands have from four to 10 players. Some are orchestras with more than 300 pans spanning five octaves from single "tenor" (soprano) pans of 24 to 27 chromatic notes to sets of nine bass pans of three notes each played by a single person. Steel bands play music from calypso and jazz to the Beatles and Bach. Since most players cannot read music, they memorize their parts, an incredible feat for classical "tunes" such as Rossini's William Tell Overture or a Bach fugue. Len "Boogsie" Sharpe is considered to be the world's best pannist, often compared to jazz vibraphone great Milt Jackson. Sharpe can play pan upside down and can harmonize his own melody with a third playing stick.

There are pans tuned in at least 10 different registers each with its own distinctive "keyboard," or note layout. Some pan manufacturers have steel drums made especially for them from specially formulated steel. A good chromed tenor pan costs upward of $750, and a full orchestra can cost more than $60,000. Most of the large steel band orchestras have corporate sponsors.

Despite the cost, there are today more than 190 steel bands in Trinidad (population 1.1 million), according to Internet listings, and more than 800 steelbands in dozens of other countries, including 300 in the United Kingdom, 240 in the United States and 130 in Switzerland, where 70 percent of the players are women. Pans are now manufactured in at least nine countries besides Trinidad. Steelband orchestras have played concerts in New York's Carnegie Hall, Washington's Kennedy Center and London's Royal Albert Hall. The "First European Steelband Festival" was held in Paris, France, in May 2000. A world conference on the "Science and Technology of Steel pan" was held in Trinidad in October 2000. Scientific American magazine has published an article on steel pan physics.

Pan players worldwide communicate via the Internet. There are dozens of sites from bulletin boards and individual steelband pages to listings of steel bands, tuners and manufacturers by country. Two of the best sites with links to other sites are www.pantrinidad.com and www.seetobago.com. A Swedish site has published a complete manual on how to manufacture and tune a pan (www.musikmuseet.se/pan/tuning/).

Laventille still claims to be the capital of pan. At least 15 steel bands have panyards (courtyard compounds where band members practice and leave their instruments), including the Desperadoes, one of Trinidad's oldest steel bands and nine-time winner of the Panorama competition held in Port of Spain during each Carnival. When Rudolph "The Hammer" Charles, steel band innovator and longtime leader of the Desperadoes, died in 1985, his funeral rivaled that of Trinidad and Tobago's first and much-loved Prime Minister Eric Williams. Laventille has started its own steel band festival in an effort to draw tourists. And several years ago the tops of two huge water tanks atop Picton Hill were painted with silver and pan notes, creating the world's largest pans.

Southern Living Magazine, March 2014

THE COASTAL CROONER CHATS ABOUT GUMBO, SOUTHERN BEACHES, AND HIS NEW MARGARITAVILLE CASINO AND RESTAURANT IN BILOXI, MISSISSIPPI.

Interview by Caroline McKenzie

Why open a Margaritaville casino in Biloxi?

I had been approached about opening casinos for a while. After Hurricane Katrina hit Biloxi, I thought if I'm going to be in the gaming industry anywhere then it should be there. I saw it as a way to help out at home. It's kind of ironic because Biloxi is where I worked summers during high school. It's where I made my first dollar as a professional musician. It's pretty cool how things have come full circle.

Was there a particular event that inspired the lyrics to "Margaritaville"?

I was with some friends in a Mexican restaurant on a hot day in Austin, Texas. We had a couple of margaritas and they really tasted good. The idea starting forming then. Afterwards I was heading back home to Key West. I wrote the song in about six minutes driving down the Overseas Highway. That was a good six minutes.

How do you take your margarita?

With Margaritaville tequila on the rocks and salt on the rim.

What is it about the coastal lifestyle that continually inspires your music?

In the Southern tradition you're always connected to the land where you grew up. I've been a lucky guy to be able to travel around the world and do a lot of interesting things. But I always seem to come back to my connections to the Gulf - New Orleans, Mobile, and Biloxi. New Orleans in particular shaped who I became musically.

Favorite Southern beach?

The least inhabited ones! Nowadays I look for secret surf spots and secret fishing spots. It's amazing the little unpopulated places you can find out there. But, since they're secrets, I can't tell you where they are.

What's the best thing your mama taught you?

Tolerance. She believed everyone should be treated equally.

What's on your Southern bucket list?

I know the Mississippi River from New Orleans, but I haven't spent time on its shoreline from Natchez to Vicksburg and on up to Memphis. There's something about fishing and boating on that part of the Mississippi River that intrigues me.

Ultimate Southern meal?

A great bowl of quail and andouille sausage gumbo.

Where's the most unexpected place you've encountered Parrot Heads?

My promoter had me playing my first show in Tahiti. It was a hula dancer from Hawaii, an Elvis impersonator from New Zealand, and me. No one there knew who I was, and we were having trouble selling tickets. I was going around and putting up flyers on every American boat I could find. The day of the show, all of a sudden an ocean research vessel appears. It's from Gulfport, Mississippi, and filled with 150 marine biology students from LSU, Southern Miss and Ole Miss. They sold out the show!

(EdNote: Your Staph Editor in Remission, Pagarita has kindly provided the LSU Tigers logo for this article, as she was so pleased to find a reference to her adopted state of Louisiana in the JMT. She is eagerly awaiting the arrival of The Society's bus trip to the Margaritaville Resort and Casino in Bossier City, LA, which is only 15 minutes from her house.)

explore is a multimedia organization that documents leaders around the world who have devoted their lives to extraordinary causes. Both educational and inspirational, explore creates a portal into the soul of humanity by championing the selfless acts of others.

explore's growing library consists of more than 250 original films and 30,000 photographs from around the world. We showcase our work on explore.org, "At explore we are archivists," explains founder Charles Annenberg Weingarten. "We strive to create films that allow the viewer to join us on our journey as we go on location and experience what unfolds. It's like the viewers are traveling with the team."

explore features a wide range of topics—from animal rights, health and human services, and poverty to the environment, education, and spirituality. Delivered in short, digestible bites, explore films appeal to viewers of all ages, from children learning about other cultures for the first time to adults looking for a fresh perspective on the world around them.

explore films include: a woman in Mumbai who has dedicated her life to rescuing young women from prostitution, a priest in Los Angeles who helps gang members reintegrate into society, a project to protect wild mountain gorillas in Rwanda, and an environmental university in Costa Rica that focuses on sustainable development.

Individuals and organizations featured in many explore films also receive explore funding in the form of Annenberg Foundation grants. To date, over $15 million has been awarded to more than 100 non-profit organizations worldwide.

explore.org, the online portal for explore, is a community destination where people share thoughts, engage in dialogue, view and email films and photographs, and embed their favorites on blogs and social networking sites. Go explore!

SPICY BLACK BEAN DIP WITH COTIJA CHEESE

- 1 clove garlic
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cumin
- One 15-ounce can black beans, rinsed and drained
- 1 can chipotle chile in adobo sauce
- 1/4 cup tightly packed cilantro leaves
- 2 tablespoons lime juice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons finely grated cotija cheese

Combine the garlic, cumin, beans, chipotle, cilantro, lime juice and salt in a small food processor. Add 1/4 cup warm water and puree until smooth. Taste for seasoning. Top with cheese, dip, enjoy!

(EdNote: Cotija is a hard, crumbly Mexican cheese made from fresh cow's milk. It's similarity with Parmesan has earned it the nickname the "Parmesan of Mexico," so substitute with Parmesan if necessary.)

That shot was so strong I'll have to have my chest waxed!

GUMBO QUIZ: BEER HERE:

And you think you're so smart, these are ALL true. See below as written by Joe Kita, Men's Health MSN.com. 32 Things You Can Do With Beer:

POLISH POTS - In days of yore, the last bit of beer from spent kegs was collected and used to polish the copper vats in breweries. Greg Smith, general manager of the Idaho Brewing Company, is keeping the tradition alive by using beer to put a shine on the copper-top tables in his Idaho Falls establishment. "Because of its acidity," he explains, "you can just pour some on, let it sit for a while, then wipe it off. It also works well on Revere Ware pots."

PASS A KIDNEY STONE - As you've undoubtedly noticed, beer is a diuretic. It helps flush the kidneys and bladder. This can be beneficial if you're suffering from a bladder infection or kidney stone. "You can drink water or cranberry juice," explains Dr. Alexander, "but beer also works. It helps dilate the ureters [the tubes connecting the kidneys and bladder], which may help you pass a stone quicker and easier. Plus, the alcohol will take the edge off the pain." But don't drink beer if you're taking antibiotics or narcotic pain medications. You'll render the drugs useless and make yourself sick.

LOOSEN RUSTY BOLTS - Pour some beer on them and wait a few minutes. The carbonation may help break up the rust.

CLEAR UP BROWN SPOTS IN YOUR LAWN According to Andrew Lopez, a professional gardener, the fermented sugars in beer stimulate plant growth and kill fungi. He recommends spraying either home brew or Rolling Rock (both are chemical-free) on those annoying brown spots in your lawn. (Either that, or just stop peeing there.) "The grass will absorb the sugar in the beer and draw energy from it," Lopez explains.

FIND DUE NORTH - Okay, here's the scenario. A bit far-fetched, we admit, but look who's going to be our next president. Let's say you're hopelessly lost in the wilderness, and all you have is a can of beer, a sewing needle, a small bowl, and a pair of extra-large silk panties. (Because this is a matter of life and death, the camp counselor should give hers up.) First, open the beer, pour some into the bowl, and let it go flat. (Better drink the rest; this may not work.) Next, magnetize the needle by stroking it repeatedly in one direction with the panties. This will generate a charge of static electricity. Then float the needle in the beer. When it stops, it'll be pointing in a north-south direction. Now get outta there!
